HONGKONG, SEPTEMBER 23RD, 1880.

REPORT says that the issue of the negotiations between Russia and China, which have been trust that rumour on this occasion: will not lis. But it must be admitted that frequently in other cases, where Russia has been concerned, the word peace has been breathed with tiresome iteration when there has been no peace and no intention of preserving it. Whatever may be the intentions of the St. Petersburg Government, it is tolerably obvious that the Authorities at Peking place little faith in Russian friendliness. The preparations now going on for war in China are just as patent as those inaugurated by Russia. The Chinese are diligently arming and massing their troops, purchasing large stores of war material, and placing the coast defences in an efficient condition, while the Russians are collecting a formidable squadron in these waters, laying up immense stores at Vladivostock, and quietly despatching troops to that port. The Chinese Government are evidently afraid that the attack, if made, will be directed where they are most vulnerable, in the north near the capital. Thus we hear of one hundred thousand men being massed near Tientsin, of forty thousand more being collected at Moukden, and of others being despatched to positions in Shingking near the Great Wall. The war party is reported to be still rather dominant in Peking, and it is stated that General Tso Tsung-rang has been summoned to Peking by Prince Ch'un and his faction in order to serve as a counterpoise to the influence of the Grand Secretary Lr Hung-chang, which is certainly, despite all representations to the contrary, not so much on the wane as has been represented. The Imperial Council is still divided, and halts between two opinions. What may be the ultimate result of the negotiations M. DE Burzow has been commissioned to open at Peking cannot be predicted with any certainty, and it would be most uneafe to confidently assume that a pacific settlement will be arrived at. For our own part we believe that in spite of the little Waster the Chinese Government have been -putting on, they would vastly prefer maintenance of peace if they can secure anything like fair terms-from their point of But if the Russian Government, eager to make the rejection of the Treaty 415,622.16. Further claims for the same period, but of Livadia a casus belli, seek to impose of the balance sheet, amount to about Tacle 55,000. conditions on China too onerous to be borne, the war party at Peking will elect to fight. The question of peace or war, in fine, depends on the action of Russia. She has spent a large sum of money in preparations for a contest, and will not be disposed to abandon the opportunity of using her giant's strength like a giant unless she obtains some substantial concession either in money or territory. As she is afflicted with a chronic earth hunger, it is possible she may suggest to the Peking Authorities a fresh rectification of the frontier, and it is not improbable that the Corent question may be brought into the discussion. Russia is extremely surious to would give her great commercial advantages and a most commanding position in Pacific waters. The negotiations at Peking will be regarded with the deepest interest by all

Or the night of the 17th instant, at nino o'clock as the steamer Fokier, Captain Abbott, was leaving her moorings at Tamsui, a fire broke ou in the camp there, which was totally destroyed in ten minutes. The camp was composed of number of mat sheds and was occupied by about 700 troops, all Northern men. Fever had been provailing amongst the men, and, it is said, they were dying at the rate of eight per day, and that on the night of the fire some of those stricken down with the malady were burnt, owing to there not being time for them to be removed.

Yesterdayafternoona swimming race took place hetween Dr. Blennerhassett, A.M.D., Lieutenant Newington, R.M.L.I., Captain Godbold, 27th Regiment, and Mr. V. Deacon. The race was from the Victoria Recreation Club round a manof-war buoy opposite the bath and back. Dr the Blennerhasset took the lead from the start, which ho increased as he went on, coming in an easy winner. Licutenant Newington-who was expected by some to have been the winner-gave up when he reached the buoy, and Mr. Deacon came in a bad second. Captain Godbo'd gave up soon after rounding the buoy and returned with the sampan that had followed the competitors.

It will be remembered (says the Japan Herald) that in 1878, the Chinese Government contracted a loss for the expenses of Tso Tsung-t'ang's army, through the medium of the Hougkong and Shaughai Bank. Decomations have been conferred on several of the foreigners through whose exertions the loan was negotiated, and amongst these gentlemen is Mr. Walter, the present manager of the bank at Yokohama, who has received a despatch from the Tsung-li Yamen stating that the button of the fourth grade ('Paotai's) and peaceck's feathers have been conferred on him in accordance with a memorial to that effect from Tso Tsung tang. Vicercy of Shensi and Kananh, in recognition of the services rendered by him in connection with the raising of the above loan Although the decoration is an honorific one-only, we are sure that Yokohama residents will be gratified at this mark of distinction conferred on Mr. Walter, who is so deservedly popular here.

O'Malley), instructed by Mesara. Brereton and Wotton; anpeared for the defendants. The jurors were Messrs. H. W. Davis, J. B.

The defendants, See Sing Kaiand Fung Ming branch there, relieving Mr. C. E. Thomson, the plaintiffs' petition set out that the defendants carried on business as merchants at Hongkoug and Salgon, that their duly authorised agent at At twenty-five minutes after seven o'clock last | Saigon during the transactions forming the subnight the fire bell at No. 5 Station gave an alarm | ject of the present suit, and for some years preindicating a fire Westward, but on the firemen and viously, was La Chok Tong, who traded as the engines going west nothing could be seen of any defendants' representative under the style of Nam fire, and the alarm proved to be false. It appears | Sing Cheeng, and the defendants had through him that a blacksmith was working with a portable transacted a large amount of business with the Bank; that in order to afford facilities to Chinese traders at Sugon to deal in and export rice, it had been for coveral years past the practice and usage of the banks there to make advances to them, the advances being required according to the course of basiness there to enable them to pay the bargain money on their contracts with the up-country dealers. . It had also been the practice for such advances to be seenred by a document known as an "Advance contre chargement de riz " drawn up in terms similar to the one act out below, and the defendants had through their agent for some years past obtained many advances from the plaintiffs on the security of such documents. On the 22nd October last Nam Sing Chang, as agent for the lefendants, obtained an advance of $5,000 and entered into a written agreement as follows:-"Advance against shipment of rice. I the under signed Nam Sing Cheong hereby acknowledge to have received from the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation the sum of $5,000 re payable on the presentation of these presents. This sum has been advanced to me solely for the purpose of the purchase of rice and cannot on any protence be employed in any other business. undertake to faithfully observe all the provisions

I under take besides to remit to the Bank here the bill of lading, policy of insurance, and draft, which will amount to about $35,000 or $40,000, upor Kwong Him Wo, of Hongkong the shipment being made by the order and for the account of this latter firm. The usance acreed for this draft is 15 days' sight at 17 per cent. discount After the expiration of 15 days the advance will bear interest at the rate of 12 per cent per annum. Saigon. 2nd Ostober. 1879 (signed Nam Sing Cheong." On the 9th October a further advance of $5,000 was made on similar terms. Nom Sing Cheong diff not ship the rice or any part thereof, nor did he remit to the Bank the documents and securities mentioned The defendants now denied their liability to pay the $10,000. The plaintiffs therefore brought the present suit to recover the amount with interest The defendants by their answer admitted that. they had from time to time purchased through a commission house at Saigon certain shipments of rice, but denied that Lo Chok Tong was their duly authorised agent at Saigon and said that Wee Choy Sing, of the Wing U commission house, was their agent and that he was paid by commission. For several years they paid Lo Chok Tong a small salary as clerk to check accounts and assist Wee Choy Sing in shipping and forwarding rive to thom, and the words " Nam Sing Cheong were only be style under which rice transactions between the Wing U-Sing house and the defendants were carried on. Lo Chok Tong might have traded under the name of Nam Sing Cheong, but the defendants did not know it, and they denied that he had any authority to pledge their credit in any way whatever, he not being their agent or representative except as already explained. They admitted the usage as to the payment of bargain money, but various obtained from the plaintiffs on rice for shipment to the defendants, neither he nor Lo Chok Tong have any authority to pledge the defend auts' crodit. Their last shipment of rice was in August, 1879, and no further order was sent for purchase of rice, and the advances alleged to have been made to Lo Chek Tong were made by the plaintiffs on their own responsibility and without any authority from the defendants. . The defendants therefore denied their liability. Mr. Hayllar, in opening the case, read the pleadings, and said Mr. Fung Ming Shan was the gentleman originally at Saigon and he continued there up to 1875 or 1876 as the resident partner of the defendants' firm, when he was replaced by Lo Chok Tong, whom he brought to the bank and introduced to the compradore and Chinese employed there as the new partner of the firm. From that day, upon the faith and credit of that introduc tion the bank had dealt with Lo Chok Tong. and in every one of the transactions precisely the same from of business occurred. Mr. Fung Ming. Shan having previously followed the same course himself. He went to the bank personally on each occasion, borrowed the money necessary to pay the bargain-money ou the rice, and he subsequently bought the rice and deposited the shipping documents with the bank, drawing bills upon Kwong Him Wo, and in every single case those bills had been honoured. He was not known to the bank except as Nam-Sing Cheong and on every occasion he came to the bank and transacted the business bimself signed his name, and paid the money himself on settling the bills. In answer to that the defen. dants in reply to interrugatories said Lo Chok Tong did not under the style of Nam Sing Cheeng make shipments of rice to them, nor draw drafts on them. But the drafts were in court and would be produced. Whether the Lo Chok Tong was a partner or simply an agent was a matter they need not trouble thomselves about; indeed in Chinese cases it was excoedingly difficult to say whether a man was a partner or agent, they were so mixed up, but if the plaintiffs' story was true they had this fact established, that Lo Chok Pong had traded with the bank, according to the usage of Saigon, for over five years, in a very large way. This mode. of doing business had been forced on the banks at Salgon by the Chinese themselves, It was not a thing the banks approved of; they had struggled against it, but any bank refusing to continue it had been tabooed. It was done, therefore, solely for the convenience of the Chinese, and he really time has elapsed to permit of the year's profits being did not understand, unless they were at sea on finally ascertained, the accounts will be closed to a the whole transaction, how they could repudinte point. A noteworthy instance of progress in sanitary matters by the Chinese has been brought to pur notice. Our readers will be surprised to hear that the District Magistrate has discovered that the streets in the city are in a filthy condition. and that by means of a special proclamation which all are tremblingly to obey, he orders them to be swept. He is indeed a man to be "looked up to." standng as he does 6 feet 2 inches in his stockings and admirably proportioned. The impression made by his modest and unasanming demeanour on the foreign community as well as on the monarch whom he is neorodited has been most faoursble. Like Queen Elizabeth, His Majesty likes to look upon a man and does not besitate to avow it. If I may be allowed to prophecy, boldly assert that the General's administration will give more satisfaction to all concerned than any of the long line of representatives from the Great Republic who have preceded him have ever succeeded in effecting. Of unexceptionable private character, he brings to the office a mind trained in the higher walks of legal and judicial lors, while public life, in which for years he has been a prominent actor, has matured his views and taught him so to not as to conserve the well: being of the masses and not to be merely the convenient tool of petty cliques. It has hitherto been the enstom of all Consula of every nationality to claim in Siam the honours of an Ambassador and to request a public reception by the King and Court on their arrival at their post. With the exception of the British and French Consuls, who are specially clothed with diplomatic powers (the one as Political Agent and the other as Commissaire), no Consular officers are entitled to these honours by international law or nanal custom. But it has been the general practice in Sium to acquiesce in these demands and bes'ow these honours. But General Hulderman positively refused to make any demand of Sinm which he was not entitled to do, though he stated that he would regard an invitation to a public audience as a mark of respect and a compliment to his country, and though he would be pleased to accept it he would not ask for it. The Siamese were very much touched by his delicacy, little accustomed to such consideration as they areand not only voluntarily tendered him a public reception, but spared no pains to make it as grand on affair as possible. The entire court was assembled in the Grand Andience Hall, the usual salutos were fired, and as the Consul, accompanied by his Vice Consul, both in full milorm, moved up the hall followed by the Ex-Consul Rev. Dr. Dean (the Consular Chaptain) ind the Rev. The General read an address. His Majesty did the same from the throne. In reply, copies were exchanged, and after the usual courtesies had been given and received, the pageant was dissolved. On Monday (to-morrow) His Majesty the Second King, has invited the Cousul to an affair of a similar pature.

Although he is in his prave and well nigh forgotten, the vexed spirit of the unfortunate Phra Pres Char, still continues to haunt these precincts and brew fresh mischief. A difficulty has arison between the French and Siamesa Anthoities in regard to his estate which threatens awkward complications. A French house in this city had large commercial transactions with the becased noble, and claim to be creditors in regard to a little transaction in diamonds to the extent of 30,000 tions ($18,000). His estate was seized by the Crown at the time of his exeoution in liquidation of his default of three quarters of a million which was deficient. Some of his debts, which were clearly bond fide and belonged to poor men; were naid, but this transnotion the Government flatly refused to recognize. Another means has been resorted to. Instead of paying their duties on a cargo of rice recently exported by them, they paid the amount to the reach Consul, who, recognizing their claim as just, handed it back to them as a payment on occupt by the Siamese Government. The boad given by them to secure the duties before the departure of the vessel is claimed by the native authorities to have been forfeited. The Consul does not see it in that light, and issue is joined, The same firm have a large American ship on the barth for Europe, the Custom House have rethemrag ai deas backmand bank back and better of the export duty, and things generally look a little "mixed." At Yams shing station, the second station from Kioto, two of these men left the train. After the train arrived at Otsu-it being an hour's run between Rioto and Otsu, and 20 minutes between Kioto and Yama shina—and all the passengers had left the station, the officials went into the train to clear the carriages. In the first-class carriage they were greatly surprised in discovering the body of a man lying on the floor, and the officials at once called a doctor, but his treatment was of no avail. It is said that the murdered man had had a large sum of money with him, and that the other two mon-had learned this and followed him secretly, and went by the same train in order to carry out their robbery. They had brottled him in the carriage, and carried off his baggare, as none of it can be found. The name and address of the unfortunate man have not yet been found out; his body has been temporarily buried by the police, and a strict search is now being made to discover the two murderers."
